APPLICATIONS BUILT

Train-your-brain

- This app is a memory game build with React. This project was fun yet challenging, break up UI components, manage component state, and respond to user events.
- The objective of the game is to click every picture at least once to win but every time you click a picture it shuffles the picture array, so you must use some memory. If you click every picture only once you win!!

Where's the show

- You can search upcoming shows by location and date. Upon clicking an artist name, the html will show a link to buy tickets to the event, the date of the show, the venue, and a thumbnail that's linked to a YouTube video from each artist, so you can get acquainted with that artist's music. This is my first team project, I was the project manager, worked on the UI and came up with the concept.

EventWright

- IN DEVELOPMENT!
- A group creation app that allowing you to pay, chat and share locations with each other. I came up with the idea of this app, so event creation is simple. Rather than using 4 different apps like Facebook, GroupMe, Snapchat and Venmo. Users can now have everything they need for an event in one app! More details coming soon.
